Painted Woods and other Jewish farming settlements

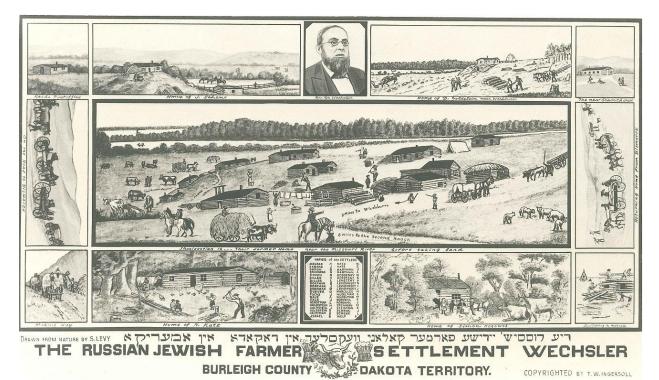

February 24, 2012

This image of an early 1880's poster, obtained from the Jewish Historical Society of the Upper Midwest, contains a list of names of the original settlers of the Jewish farming settlement in Painted Woods, Dakota Territory (later North Dakota). Many of these families came in 1881-1882 from the regions of Bessarabia and Odessa. By 1884 there were over 50 Jewish families, though some of them by then had come from other areas of the United States. The settlement disbanded by the 1890's, and many of the residents had moved by then to Minnesota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington, and other areas of the U.S.

There is also an image below from an 1884 St. Paul, Minnesota newspaper (The Globe) that said, "...The selection of the colonists, nearly all of whom came from Odessa, or its immediate neighborhood, seems to have been confided to the Rev. Dr. Wechsler, of St. Paul..."

There were many Jewish farming settlements in the United States, Canada, and South America. In the 1880's, one was started in Devil's Lake, North Dakota, another in Wapella, Canada, and another in Moisés Ville, Argentina. Information about the Jewish farming settlements of the United States can be found in the Jewish Encyclopedia online.

Many or all of these Jewish farming settlements of the 1880's were assisted with funding by the Baron de Hirsch foundation.

Text from this early 1880's poster (starting at top left): "Reeds Post office", "Home of J. Schenk", "Rev. Dr. Wechsler", "Home of D. Goldstein near Washburn", "The new schoolhouse", "On the road to Bismarck", "(Center) Five miles to Washburn", "(Center) School section 16...Their former home near the Missouri River before taking land", "Returning home from Bismarck", "Making hay", "Home of N. Katz", the list of original settlers, "Home of Simon Hogowol", "Building a house", "COPYRIGHTED BY T.W. INGERSOLL"

Jewish farming settlement, Painted Woods, Dakota Territory (1881-)

Transcribed list of original settlers

		list of original settlers
Last Name, First	From	Comment
Axelrad, A.		Probably "Abraham Axelrod", b. 1860
Axelrad, J.
Baron, B.		May be related to Lasur Barron
Bromberg, N.	*Bessarabia	May be related to Israel Brumberg. Other possible relatives Nudelman, Goldstein
Cohen, N.
Diller, S.	*Odessa
Diller, L.	*Odessa	Possibly Levi Dillar/Dellar, b. 1862
Dorfman, B.	Kishinev,	Anna, Baruch Dorfman's daughter, arrived
	Bessarabia	with husband Joseph Confeld and children
		1884-1885. Confeld related to Oxman.
Dorfman, J.	Kishinev	Probably Joseph Dorfman, b. 1860
Dorfman, M.	Kishinev	Probably Moses Dorfman, b. 1858.
Dubiver, D.	*Zalozhtsy,	Probably "David Dubiver", b. 1835-1837
	Ukraine
Fuchs, J.
Gale, A.	*Ukraine	Possibly related to Marcus Grabifker
Gale, J.	*Ukraine
Gerstman, L.	*Ukraine
Goldstein, H.	*Bessarabia	May be related to Bromberg, Nudelman
Goldstein, J.	*Bessarabia
Goldstein, D.	*Bessarabia
Hechtman, B.	*Ukraine
Jsrael, B.		May be related to Barnet Israel
Katz, N.	*Vina, Poland	Probably Nachum Chaim Nolan Hyman Katz
Katz, S.
Kartman, J.		Joseph Cartman spelling in land patent
Kartman, A.
Kosofsky, N.		May be related to Louis Kosofsky
Kosofsky, A.
Lenetzky, A.	*Ukraine	May be related to Solomon Linetsky
Levidansky, N.	*Ukraine
Levidansky, C.	*Ukraine
Levidansky, J.	*Ukraine
Marcules, M.		May be related to Calman Marqulius
Nudelman, S.	*Bessarabia	Solomon Nudelman may be related to
		Bromberg, Goldstein, Dubiver, Cohen
Nudelman, M.	*Bessarabia
Rogowol, S.
Rogowol, J.
Steinman, M.	Odessa	Mike/Moses, related to Dorfman, Confeld
Steinman, S.	Kishinev	Baruch Dorfman's daughter, Sarah
Schenk, J.	*Odessa	May be related to Michael Schenk
Schenk, L.	*Odessa
Wolf, A.
•	1

^{*}U.S. Census, Ancestry.com, and JewishGen records were used to determine where this family might have emigrated from.

THE ST. PAUL SUNDAY GLOBE. SUNDAY MORNING, OUTOBER 19, 1884.

THE RUSSIAN JEWS.

Report Concerning the Colony at Painted Woods.

To the trustees of the Mansion House fund for relief of the colonies. . Messrs. Benjamine Cohen, Samuel Montague and A. Asher, M. D., a committee appointed by the Mansion House society of London, an organization especially charged with the duty of providing relief and assistance for the Russian Jews, have just returned to London from a trip to the United States and Canada, their special mission being to inquire into the general condition and prospects of the Russian Jewish emigrants, in this country and Canada. These gentlemen visited St. Paul with the expectation of meeting Rev. Dr. Wechsler, out his absence provented. They, however, visited the colony founded by Dr. Wechsler at Painted Woods in Dakota, and in their report to the Trustees they make the following statement, which the Globe reproduces below:

THE COLONY AT PAINTED WOODS, NEAR BIS-MARCK, DAKOTA.

There are about may manned this colony, of which the situation seems to, this colony, of which the situation seems to, be exceedingly well chosen. It is distant about thirty-five miles from Bismarck, a new about unity-live lines from Bismarck, a new but rapidly developed and thriving town in Dakota. The road throughout, from Bis-marck to the colony, is in good order, the colony itself is situated close to the Missouri river, on which we saw steamers and freight barges navigating. Independent, therefore, of the rapid extension of rail-way communication through the western states of America, the river itself will always furnish a ready and cheap channel for the conveyance of agricultural produce. The colony covers a large extent produce. The colony covers a large extent of ground, and the arrangement of the considerable plats of land allotted to each settler necessitates their being somewhat widely dis-tributed. The nearest town or station of any description is Washburn, but as the habits description is washourn, out as the habits and modes of life of the settlers are still strange to their adopted country, it is per-haps to their advantage than otherwise that, during the first years of what may be termed their acclimatization, they should be to some extent isolated. Each should he to some extent isolated. Each head of a family has 160 acres of land allotted to him, which becomes absolutely his property in three years on condition of his having resided and having worked on there continuously during that interval. The soil is extremely rich and fertile, and in this reis extremely rich and fertile, and in this re-spect compares favorably with the colony of Vineland. A wagon, a team of oxen, a plough, and in some cases a cow, have been furnished jointly to almost every two families, and we were pleased to observe that no disputes of im-portance appear to have arisen amongst the colonists, who, in spite of the undoubtedly colonists, who, in spite of the undoubtedly severe struggles incidental to their life, professed themselves very contented with their lot, and very grateful for what had been done for them. The tenements in which they lived were naturally of the rudest description. They were generally constructed of mud, bound together by timber, of which there is an absorbance to say the second of the secon there is an abundant supply, and the completeness and fittings of these huts varied generally according to the age and constitution of the occupying family.

Where there were young men o Where there were young men or boys these had assisted their father both in construction of the hut and in the cultivation of struction of the hut and in the cultivation of the soil. The number of acres hitherto brought under cultivation by each of the colonists seemed to vary from ten to twenty—by no means an unsatisfactory result, considering the circumstances. It may fairly be hoped that the progress as times advances, will be more rapid, so that each of the colonists may hope, by industry and labor, to find himself the owner in a few years of a thriving farm of considerable extent, and to be in a position to leave to his children an independent and honorable means of livilhood. The selection of the colonists, nearly all of whom came from Odessa, or its immediate neighborhood, seems to have been confided to the Rev. Dr. Wechsto have been confided to the Rev. Dr. Weehs-ler, of St. Paul. We were not fortunate enough to meet Dr. Weehsler, as he was absent in California; but we had the pleasure to make the acquaintance of the members of his family, from whom we re-ceived much attention during our stay at St. Paul. It is impossible to speak too highly of Dr. Weehester's services to this

On all sides, from the Jewish Reserves, Bismarck, from the colonists themselves, and from the stray Russian Jews, whom we aw at Bismarck, and who were anxious to and from the stray Russian Jews, whom we saw at Bismarek, and who were anxions to be placed on land at the colony, an unani-mous tribute was paid to his kindness, to his solicitude for the welfare of the colonists and to his constant efforts to provide them with all that was necessary to their calling. We were told also that there was a school in the neighborhood of the colwas a school in the neighborhood of the col-coy. The settlers were enabled to, and we helieve did, observe the Sabbath; and we learned that divine service was held, and had been attended by more than one of the residents in the town of Biamarck, It will be readily imagined that we were met with several applications for more implements and further grants of many necessaries, but the expenses of this colony, as the committee are aware, have already been very great, and although the outlay incurred ap-pears to have been judiciously expended, we pears to have over judiciously expended, we are informed that for both this colony and indeed for the Russian Jews generally throughout the state, there is considerable difficulty in raising further funds in America. In one or two cases the colonists already settled entreated us most anxiously to assist them to bring out their relatives, sometimes the wife, at others the children, and certainly it would seem that where undoubted proof can be furnished of the identity and whereabouts of near rela-tives of the colonists, who have been left in Russia, assistance should first be given enable these to join the breadwinner of the family before the number of those aiready family before the number of those already placed is increased. In answer to our in quiries as to the fitness of these emigrants for farm labor, we were told by Mr. Falk net, and himself a considerable landowner, that they worked well, and on the whole industriously. The resources, however, at the command of the colonists were often insufficient to employ all the hands of one family on the land allotted to it, and Mr. Falkner remarked that the younger members of a family might frequently be of great assistance to their parents by hiring themselves out as laborers on adquanty te of great assistance to mer parents by hiring themselves out as laborers on adjoining properties, were it not that they would not accept the by no means inconsiderable renumeration attacking to such labor. We endeavored to impress his advice on the colonists, as we saw one or wo instances of the justness of Mr. Falkner s observation.

The committee also visited the colony at Vineland, New Jersey, where they found the colonists in a state of thrift and contentment. They also mention in their report the colony founded by Sir A. Galt at Moosemin, near Winnipeg. Within the last three years 18,000 to 20,000 Russian Jews, able bodied and willing to work, have reached the United States and Canada, all of whom are engaged in the honest endeavor to gain for themselves honest and self supporting livelihoods.

Links for further reading

- Jewish farming communities created in Canada and South America.
- Axelrod, Baron, Cartman, Cohn/Cohen, Crosfosky, Dorfman/Dortman/Doffman, Dubever, Gale, Gerzman, Goldstine, Isral/Iraels, Katz, Linesky/Linetzky/Linitzky, Nettleman, Nudelman, Shanck/Schenk, Steinman/Stineman, and Wolf appear in the North Dakota 1885 Census or the North Dakota Naturalization Records.
- Land patent searches can be done at the Bureau of Land Management website (try state=North Dakota, County=McLean, Issue Date: 1880-1910). Axelrod, Baron, Cartman, Dorfman, Israel, Katz, Kosofsky, Linetsky, Marqulius, Schenk, Stemman appear in these records.
- Guide to the Records of the Baron de Hirsch Fund
- The Mansion House of London
- Bygone Rural Jewish Settlements Remembered: May 8, 1986
- Rachel Calof's Story: Jewish Homesteaders on the Northern Plains
- "Proving up and Moving up": Jewish Homesteading Activity in North Dakota, 1900-1920

"Painted Woods and other Jewish farming settlements"
Richard S. Levine
Clearwater, Florida
RichardSLevine@hotmail.com
http://www.rickslevine.com