WHAT ARE THE RECORDS

WHERE ARE THE RECORDS

JewishGen is Unique—It Protects its Website

Have you noticed that when you visit all the pages of returns from the JewishGen databases that include search results from transcribed records that you cannot copy the address and find the site again.

Skill Building Exercise #31: Why Cite?

From the All Belarus Database do a Horwitz search. Click on the Belarus Births Database →

- ➡ Click on
- ➡ Look at the results
- ➡ Now look at the top of the toolbar at the address (the URL)
http://www.jewishgen.org/databases/jgdetail_2.php
- ➡ Put this URL (address) into your browser
- ➡ Notice that you are returned to JewishGen databases. Not to your result page.

JewishGen protects their sources for JewishGen. You must protect your returns for yourself.

Skill Building Exercise #32: Protect Your Sources

- ➡ There is much to learn about how to cite your sources.
- ➡ There are citation machines that you can use.
- ➡ Most genealogical software programs have ways to personalize the way you write your sources. RootsMagic7 does an excellent job.
- ➡ There are free programs and there are subscription programs with short 1-week free access.
- ➡ Check these links Easy Bib
Cite This FortMe
