BRISTOL JEWISH BURIAL SOCIETY

The letter I inserted in last month's Recorder regarding the Burial Scheme, had a very good response. Many letters on the subject were received, and I will get round to answering them all very soon.

I would like to point out to the older members of the Community that the old one penny per week (equivalent now to 52p per year) DOES NOT entitle anyone to free burial. This charge was made to help with the upkeep of the Cemetery. It may be of interest to know that a single grass cutting now costs OVER £200.

There are many insurance schemes available for burial which are transferable to any part of the country, and are well worth looking in to. The average cost of a Funeral today is between £700-£850, and the cost of a Stone, between £750-£1000.

We give help willingly to all who ask, but remember, very few members are entitled to completely free Funerals.

UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL DRAMA DEPARTMENT

The Bristol Czechoslovak Festival (THE CZECH FEST)
Director JOHN ADLER

The city of Bristol is rapidly coming to be recognised as a leading centre of artistic activity in Great Britain today. The above Festival, which will feature a host of events in various media throughout the month of October, marks a new and important era of co-operation by many of the prestigious organisations connected with the arts in Bristol who have created the enviable cultural reputation the city now enjoys. The Festival features Theatre, Music, Poetry, Dance, Jazz, Sculpture, Photography, Stage Design, Illustration and Graphics and a Film Festival. It contains a number of important British premieres and will include British and visiting Czech artistes whose work will be seen at such venues as Arncliffe, The Bristol Old Vic, the City Museum, The University, The Watershed, The Dance Centre, The Hope Centre and both Catholic and Protestant Cathedrals.

Of PARTICULAR interest to the Community will be the BRITISH PREMIERE of THE CHILDREN OF TEREZIN a work for strings, soprano and narrator by Edoardo Brizio.

TEREZIN was an interim post during the occupation of Czechoslovakia, the last place where families might remain together before being divided up among the death camps of Hitler's Reich. Despite the appalling conditions it became the centre of remarkable artistic activity. The journals of children incarcerated there together with their poetry forms the basis of this poignant work. EDOARDO BRIZIO has created a musical framework for this testament to those who died in TEREZIN, which has been performed in Prague to considerable effect. The poems, put to music, are sung by the distinguished Italian soprano Fiorella Prandini, who performed it on Italian Television. The Festival String Orchestra is conducted by the composer. The programme will be completed by works for strings by Czechoslovak composers.

CLIFTON CATHEDRAL: 7.30 p.m. 17th. October TICKETS: COLSTON HALL

SYNAGOGUE VISIT

The visit on September 14th. by a large group of Teachers on a Religious Studies Course, was very successful, and much appreciated by the visitors who showed great interest in the service and asked many questions afterwards. It was also excellent "P.R.", and thanks should be extended to the organizers, and to all the ladies who provided and served refreshments.

SUKKOT

STOP PRESS: Our sincere thanks to Mr ALAN TOBIAS and all his young helpers, for his considerable efforts in erecting the SUKKA, and to all the teenagers who made such a fantastic job of decoration. Thanks of course also, to the gallant band of ladies who bake, provide, and serve the splendid refreshments.
